DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to a letter for patent filed on January 23rd, 2002 in which claims 1-23 were presented for examination. Claims 1-23 were pending in the letter.

Preliminary Amendment

2. A preliminary amendment has been filed on January 23rd, 2002. Claims 1-23 have been canceled and claims 24-30 were added. Claims 24-30 are pending in the letter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 24-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ginter et al (U.S. PG Pub No. 2002/0133793 A1).

5. As per claims 24, Ginter et al teach a storage medium for recording a document circulation program for circulating a document having a plurality of data blocks in such a manner that the document circulation program can be read by a computer, the storage medium comprising a code for receiving the document at a designated worker from a network in which the document contains data blocks relevant to different workers encrypted by using different encrypting keys corresponding to the different workers; and a code for decrypting an encrypted portion of the document received at the designated worker from the network by using a decrypting key corresponding to the designated worker and a code for setting a display condition that the document is displayed after deleting therefrom a data block encrypted by the different workers (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

6. As per claims 25, Ginter et al teach a storage medium further including a code for indicating whether each of data blocks included in the document is a decrypted document, and whether the data block which cannot be decrypted is to be displayed (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

7. As per claims 26, Ginter et al teach a storage medium storage medium for recording a document circulation program readable by a computer system for circulating a document having a plurality of data blocks over a network, the storage medium comprising a code for encrypting a certain data block of a plurality of data blocks of a document relevant to a certain worker by using an encrypting key corresponding to the certain worker and encrypting another data block of the plurality of data blocks of the document relevant to another worker by using an encrypting key corresponding to the another worker; a code for circulating the document having encrypted certain data block and encrypted another data block over a network; and a code for setting a display condition that the document is displayed after deleting therefrom a data block which cannot be decrypted when the document is decrypted by using a decryption key corresponding to the certain worker (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

8. As per claims 27, Ginter et al teach a storage medium further including a code for indicating whether each of data blocks included in the document is a decrypted document, and whether the data block which cannot be decrypted is to be displayed (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

9. As per claims 28, Ginter et al teach a document circulation method of circulating a document having a plurality of data blocks, comprising encrypting a certain data block of a plurality of data blocks in a document relevant to a certain worker by using an encrypting key corresponding to the certain worker; encrypting another data block of the plurality of data blocks in the document relevant to another worker by using another encrypting key corresponding to the another worker; circulating the document having the certain data block encrypted by the encryption key and the another data block encrypted by the another encryption key over a network; receiving the document having encrypted certain data block and encrypted another data block by the certain worker from the network; decrypting the document by using a decrypting key corresponding to the certain worker, and setting a display condition that the document is displayed after deleting a data block which cannot be decrypted (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

Art Unit: 3621

10. As per claims 29, Ginter et al teach a document circulation method further displaying a column of a data block which cannot be decrypted in the form of a blank, when the encrypted portion of the document is decrypted by using the another decrypting key corresponding to the another worker (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

11. As per claims 30, Ginter et al teach a method according further determining not to display data when there is no data to be decrypted (see paragraphs 0184, 0211, 0533, 1355, 1723, 1840, 2121 and claims 30).

Conclusion

12 The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. (see form 892).
